Chapter 12: वीराङ्गना पन्नाधाया (Panna Dhai, the Brave)

Subject	Sanskrit (NCERT Class 7, Deepakam)
Chapter	12 — वीराङ्गना पन्नाधाया (Panna Dhai, the Brave)
Total Questions	60 (Multiple Choice, single correct)
Maximum Marks	240
Suggested Time	90 minutes

Marking scheme: +4 for each correct answer · -1 for each wrong answer · 0 if unattempted.

Instructions: Each question has four options (A), (B), (C), (D); exactly one is correct. Questions test the historical story and its grammar. Watch the classic traps: Panna sacrificed her own SON's life (she herself survived), placing him in the prince's bed; धाया (wet-nurse) is not धैर्य (patience); मारयितुम् is the INFINITIVE 'to kill' (-तुम्), not the past 'he killed' (अमारयत्); दुष्टबुद्धि means EVIL-minded (wicked), not foolish (मूर्ख); and राजगृह (palace) is a place while राजपुत्र (prince) is a person. The events are षोडशे शतके (16th century). Sanskrit in Devanagari. Do not write on this paper — mark answers on your answer sheet.

22. By this act, Panna saved:

- (A) her own son (B) the future king (the prince)
(C) the assassin (D) the palace treasure

23. Panna's substitution worked because the assassin:

- (A) spared everyone
(B) killed the boy in the prince's bed, thinking he was the prince
(C) recognised the trick (D) killed the wrong kingdom's prince

24. सर्वस्वत्याग means:

- (A) a small gift (B) a royal feast
(C) a clever trick (D) the sacrifice of one's everything

25. सर्वस्वम् is glossed as स्वीयं सम्पूर्णम्, meaning:

- (A) a tiny part (B) someone else's wealth
(C) a bedroom (D) one's complete own (all one has)

26. For Panna, सर्वस्वत्याग specifically meant giving up:

- (A) her own life (B) her wealth
(C) her own son's life (D) her position as nurse

27. The chapter stresses that Panna herself:

- (A) died in the prince's place (B) survived; it was her son who died
(C) fled the kingdom (D) killed the assassin

(C) permanently honoured by history (D) punished

36. Panna's name is honoured among India's:

- (A) wealthy merchants (B) foreign rulers
(C) brave women (वीराङ्गनासु) (D) assassins

37. वीराङ्गना means:

- (A) a brave / heroic woman (B) a wet-nurse
(C) a bedroom (D) a deception

38. Writing a name 'in golden letters' in history means the person is remembered as:

- (A) a forgotten servant (B) an ordinary citizen
(C) a villain (D) a great and noble example

39. मारयितुम् means:

- (A) he killed (B) let him kill
(C) to kill (D) killing (a noun)

40. मारयितुम् is a/an:

- | | |
|--|--------------------|
| (A) past-tense verb | (B) ordinal number |
| (C) infinitive (with the -तुम् ending) | (D) gerund |

41. The -तुम् ending marks the Sanskrit:

- | | |
|-----------------|----------------------------|
| (A) past tense | (B) plural |
| (C) dative case | (D) infinitive ('to do X') |

42. Which of these is also an infinitive?

- | | |
|---------------------------|---------------------------|
| (A) अमारयत् ('he killed') | (B) अगणयत् ('he counted') |
| (C) गच्छति ('he goes') | (D) गन्तुम् ('to go') |

43. The PAST tense 'he killed' would be:

- | | |
|----------------|---------------|
| (A) अमारयत् | (B) मारयितुम् |
| (C) मारयिष्यति | (D) मारयतु |

44. The assassin came मारयितुम् tells us his _____, not that he succeeded.

- | | |
|-----------------------|-------------|
| (A) past success | (B) name |
| (C) purpose (to kill) | (D) kingdom |

45. दुष्टबुद्धि means:

- | | |
|----------------------|--|
| (A) foolish / stupid | (B) evil-minded (with a corrupt intellect) |
| (C) very wise | (D) very brave |

46. दुष्टबुद्धि breaks into दुष्ट + बुद्धि, meaning:

- | | |
|--|-----------------------------|
| (A) 'wicked' + 'intellect' = evil-minded | (B) 'foolish' + 'intellect' |
| (C) 'brave' + 'mind' | (D) 'good' + 'plan' |

47. The villain in the story was:

- | | |
|---|-------------------|
| (A) foolish but kind | (B) wise and good |
| (C) brave and loyal | |
| (D) clever but wicked (दुष्ट), not merely foolish (मूर्ख) | |

48. Distinguishing दुष्ट (wicked) from मूर्ख (foolish) tells us the rival was:

- | | |
|--|----------------------------------|
| (A) morally bad, not intellectually weak | (B) intellectually weak, not bad |
| (C) both good and wise | (D) a loyal servant |

49. राजगृह means:

- | | |
|----------------------|---------------|
| (A) a prince | (B) a bedroom |
| (C) the royal palace | (D) a prison |

50. राजपुत्र means:

- | | |
|----------------------|-----------------|
| (A) the royal palace | (B) a prince |
| (C) a wet-nurse | (D) a deception |

51. The assassin entered the राजपुत्र's शयनागार inside the राजगृह, that is, the:

- (A) palace's bedroom inside a prince (B) prince inside a bedroom-palace
(C) prison inside a palace (D) prince's bedroom inside the royal palace

52. Swapping राजगृह and राजपुत्र is an error because one is a _____ and the other a _____.

- (A) place (palace) ... person (prince) (B) person ... place
(C) both places (D) both persons

53. छलेन (by deception) and कुतन्त्रम् (an evil plot) describe the rival's:

- (A) honest request (B) kind gift
(C) loyal service (D) treacherous method of attack

54. The rival relied on छल (deception) rather than:

- (A) an open, honest challenge (B) a clever plot
(C) a wicked scheme (D) a hidden assassin

55. कुतन्त्रम् (कु + तन्त्रम्) suggests a plan that is:

- (A) good and noble (B) bad / wicked (the prefix कु- means 'bad')
(C) very large (D) brand new

56. Which word-meaning pair is CORRECT?

- (A) धाया = a prince (B) मारयितुम् = he killed
(C) शयनागारम् = bedroom (D) सर्वस्वम् = a small gift

57. Which grammar pair is CORRECT?

- (A) मारयितुम् = past tense
(B) मारयितुम् = infinitive ('to kill'); षोडशम् = ordinal ('sixteenth')
(C) षोडशम् = the count 'sixteen' (D) धाया = a verb

58. The central theme of this chapter is:

- (A) a fox and grapes
(B) Panna Dhai's supreme sacrifice and loyalty in saving the prince
(C) the cycle of food (D) types of government

59. Putting it together, पन्नाधाया is honoured स्वर्णिमाक्षरैः because she:

Worked Solutions

- (A) The heroine is Panna Dhai (पन्नाधाय). Not Lakshmi Bai, her son, or the assassin.
- (C) वीराङ्गना means 'a brave woman / heroine'. She was a heroic wet-nurse, but the word means 'heroine', not 'queen' or 'soldier'.
- (D) Panna was the wet-nurse / foster-mother (धाय) of the prince. Not his birth mother, teacher, or cook.
- (A) She protected Udai Singh II of Mewar. Bankim Chandra and Veer Savarkar are from other chapters.
- (B) The kingdom is Mewar. Magadha, Kalinga and the Andamans are from other chapters.
- (B) It is a historical account of loyalty and sacrifice. Not a fable, a chemistry lesson, or a banking story.
- (D) धाय means a wet-nurse / foster-mother. Not a queen, soldier, or prince.

- 8. (A) धाया = धात्री = 'a foster-mother / nurse'. Not a warrior, a bedroom, or a palace.
- 9. (B) धैर्य means 'patience / courage', distinct from धाया (wet-nurse). It is not a bedroom or a plot.
- 10. (A) धाया vs धैर्य shows that vowel length and quality (आ vs ऐ) distinguish words. Vowels are not all the same, spelling does matter, and words do have genders.
- 11. (C) As his धाया, Panna nursed and protected the prince. She did not rule, lead the army, or plot against him.
- 12. (D) The rival plotted to kill the prince in his sleep. Not to crown, teach, or free him.
- 13. (D) कुतन्त्रम् means 'an evil plot / wicked scheme'. Not a good plan, a bedroom, or a wet-nurse.
- 14. (B) छलेन means 'by deception / trickery'. Not by truth, force alone, or accident.
- 15. (C) मारयितुम् means 'to kill' - the assassin's purpose. Not to protect, crown, or teach.
- 16. (A) The plot targeted the prince asleep in his bedroom. Not in battle, studying, or crossing a river.
- 17. (D) The scheme aimed at murdering the future king. Not the prince's education, a reward, or a reef.
- 18. (B) Panna placed her own son in the prince's bed. Not a doll, the assassin, or another prince.
- 19. (B) She placed him in the prince's शयनागारम् (bedroom). Not the palace gate, a battlefield, or a river.
- 20. (C) शयनागारम् means 'a bedroom'. Not a gate, a battlefield, or a prison.
- 21. (C) She knew her own son would be killed in the prince's place. It was not harmless, the prince did not die, and the assassin did not flee.
- 22. (B) By her act Panna saved the future king. Not her own son (who died), the assassin, or treasure.
- 23. (B) It worked because the assassin killed the boy in the prince's bed, thinking he was the prince. He did not spare everyone, see through the trick, or attack another kingdom.
- 24. (D) सर्वस्वत्याग means 'the sacrifice of one's everything'. Not a small gift, a feast, or a trick.

- 25. (D) सर्वस्वम् = स्वीयं सम्पूर्णम् = 'one's complete own'. Not a tiny part, another's wealth, or a bedroom.
- 26. (C) For Panna it meant giving up her own son's life. She did not give her own life, mere wealth, or her position.
- 27. (B) Panna herself survived; it was her son who died. She did not die, flee, or kill the assassin.
- 28. (C) Her sacrifice is unique because she gave her child's life for another's child. Not her own life, a small sum, or a day's work.
- 29. (D) The one who died was her own son, placed in the prince's bed. It was not Panna, the prince, or the assassin.
- 30. (D) The events were in the 16th century (षोडशे शतके). Not the 6th, 20th, or 2nd century BCE.
- 31. (B) षोडशे शतके means 'in the sixteenth century'. Not the sixth century, sixtieth year, or sixteen days.
- 32. (C) षोडशम् is the ordinal 'sixteenth'. 'Sixth' is षष्ठम्, 'sixty' षष्टिः, and 'sixteen' (cardinal) षोडश.
- 33. (A) The 16th century is the time of Mewar's Maharana lineage (the 1500s). Not the Maurya or Gupta empire, or the modern Republic.
- 34. (A) स्वर्णिमाक्षरैः means 'in golden letters'. Not 'in black water' (कालापानी), 'in a bedroom', or 'by deception'.
- 35. (C) Being written in golden letters is an idiom for being permanently honoured by history. Not hidden, forgotten, or punished.
- 36. (C) Her name is honoured among India's brave women (वीराङ्गनासु). Not merchants, foreign rulers, or assassins.
- 37. (A) वीराङ्गना means 'a brave / heroic woman'. A wet-nurse is धाया, a bedroom शयनागारम्, and deception छल.
- 38. (D) It means the person is remembered as a great and noble example. Not a forgotten servant, an ordinary citizen, or a villain.
- 39. (C) मारयितुम् means 'to kill' (infinitive). 'He killed' is अमारयत्; 'let him kill' an imperative; and it is not a noun.
- 40. (C) मारयितुम् is an infinitive (-तुम् ending). It is not a past-tense verb, an ordinal, or a gerund.

- 41. (D) The -तुम् ending marks the infinitive ('to do X'). It does not mark past tense, plural, or the dative.
- 42. (D) गन्तुम् ('to go') is also an infinitive (-तुम्). अमारयत् and अगणयत् are past tense, and गच्छति is present.
- 43. (A) 'He killed' is अमारयत्. मारयितुम् is the infinitive, मारयिष्यति future, and मारयतु imperative.
- 44. (C) मारयितुम् ('to kill') gives the assassin's purpose, not that he succeeded. Not his name or kingdom.
- 45. (B) दुष्टबुद्धि means 'evil-minded' (corrupt intellect). It does not mean foolish, wise, or brave.
- 46. (A) दुष्ट ('wicked') + बुद्धि ('intellect') = 'evil-minded'. The other splits are wrong.
- 47. (D) The villain was clever but wicked (दुष्ट), not merely foolish (मूर्ख). He was not kind, good, or loyal.
- 48. (A) दुष्ट (wicked) vs मूर्ख (foolish) shows the rival was morally bad, not intellectually weak. He was not good, wise, or loyal.
- 49. (C) राजगृह means 'the royal palace'. A prince is राजपुत्र, a bedroom शयनागारम्, and a prison कारागारम्.
- 50. (B) राजपुत्र means 'a prince'. The palace is राजगृह, a wet-nurse धाया, and deception छल.
- 51. (D) He entered the prince's (राजपुत्र) bedroom (शयनागार) inside the royal palace (राजगृह). The other readings swap the words.
- 52. (A) राजगृह is a place (palace) and राजपुत्र a person (prince). The reversal and 'both same' options are wrong.
- 53. (D) छलेन and कुतन्त्रम् describe the rival's treacherous method of attack. Not an honest request, a gift, or service.
- 54. (A) The rival relied on deception rather than an open, honest challenge. He did use a clever, wicked plot and a hidden assassin - those are not the contrast.
- 55. (B) कु- means 'bad', so कुतन्त्रम् is a bad/wicked plan. Not good, large, or new.
- 56. (C) शयनागारम् = bedroom. धाया is a wet-nurse (not a prince), मारयितुम् is 'to kill' (not 'he killed'), and सर्वस्वम् is 'one's everything' (not a small gift).
- 57. (B) मारयितुम् is an infinitive and षोडशम् the ordinal 'sixteenth'. The other options misname these.

58. (B) The theme is Panna Dhai's supreme sacrifice and loyalty in saving the prince. Not the fox fable, the food cycle, or government.

59. (A) She is honoured in golden letters because she sacrificed her own son's life to save the future king. Not for a battle, a poem, or ruling Mewar.

60. (A) Panna gave up her own son's life (she survived), and मारयितुम् is the infinitive 'to kill'. The other options keep one or both errors.
