

Olympiad Test Paper — Sanskrit (Class 7)

Chapter 9: अन्नाद् भवन्ति भूतानि (Annad Bhavanti Bhutani)

Subject	Sanskrit (NCERT Class 7, Deepakam)
Chapter	9 — अन्नाद् भवन्ति भूतानि (Annad Bhavanti Bhutani)
Total Questions	60 (Multiple Choice, single correct)
Maximum Marks	240
Suggested Time	90 minutes

Marking scheme: +4 for each correct answer · –1 for each wrong answer · 0 if unattempted.

Instructions: Each question has four options (A), (B), (C), (D); exactly one is correct. Questions test the Gita 3.14 cycle and its grammar. Watch the classic traps: भूतानि means 'beings / creatures' (root भू), NOT 'ghosts'; अन्नात् is the ABLATIVE ('from food', a source not a maker), and अन्नाद् in अन्नाद्भवन्ति is the same case after sandhi (त् -> द् before भू); जानीयात् is the OPTATIVE ('one should know'), not past tense; ब्रह्म (neuter) is the all-pervading Absolute, not the creator-god ब्रह्मा or the priest ब्रह्मन्. Keep the cycle order straight: action -> yajna -> rain -> food -> beings. Sanskrit in Devanagari. Do not write on this paper — mark answers on your answer sheet.

1. अन्नाद् भवन्ति भूतानि means:

- | | |
|--------------------------|----------------------------------|
| (A) beings create food | (B) from food, beings come to be |
| (C) food destroys beings | (D) beings eat ghosts |

2. This verse is taken from the:

- | | |
|--------------------------|--------------------|
| (A) Bhagavad Gita (3.14) | (B) Ramayana |
| (C) Arthashastra | (D) Isha Upanishad |

3. भूतानि in the verse means:

- | | |
|-------------------------------|-----------|
| (A) ghosts | (B) foods |
| (C) beings / living creatures | (D) rains |

4. भवन्ति means:

- | | |
|----------------------------------|----------------------|
| (A) they come to be / they arise | (B) they destroy |
| (C) they eat | (D) they should know |

5. अन्नात् means:

- | | |
|------------------|----------------------------|
| (A) to food | (B) of food |
| (C) without food | (D) from food (the source) |

6. According to Gita 3.14, beings come from food, food from _____, rain from _____, and yajna from _____.

(A) action ... rain ... yajna

(B) yajna ... action ... rain

(C) food ... beings ... rain

(D) rain ... yajna ... action (karma)

7. In the cycle, अन्नम् (food) comes from:

(A) यज्ञ (sacrifice)

(B) पर्जन्य (rain)

(C) कर्म (action)

(D) भूत (beings)

8. पर्जन्य (rain) comes from:

(A) अन्न (food)

(B) भूत (beings)

(C) ओषधि (herbs)

(D) यज्ञ (sacrifice)

9. यज्ञ (sacrifice) comes from:

(A) रसायन (chemistry)

(B) भूत (beings)

(C) कर्म (action)

(D) अन्न (food)

10. Reversed, the chain reads action -> yajna -> rain -> food -> _____.

(A) beings (भूतानि)

(B) ghosts

(C) herbs

(D) chemistry

11. The cycle of creation in the verse teaches the world's:

(A) interdependence (everything depends on the rest)

(B) complete independence

(C) random chaos

(D) destruction

12. The lesson of the cycle is that human action (कर्म) ultimately supports:

(A) nothing at all

(B) only the rich

(C) only ghosts

(D) the food and life of all beings

13. अन्नात् is the _____ case of अन्न.

(A) nominative

(B) ablative ('from')

(C) accusative

(D) dative

14. The ablative अन्नात् tells us food is the _____ of beings.

(A) maker (it builds them)

(B) source (they arise from it)

(C) enemy

(D) ruler

15. Sanskrit ablatives express 'arise from', so the chain is one of:

(A) manufacture by a builder

(B) dependence, not creation by a maker

(C) destruction

(D) random chance

16. In अन्नाद्भवन्ति, the -द् at the end of अन्नाद् results from:

(A) a plural ending

(B) a verb root

(C) the past tense

(D) sandhi (अन्नात् + भवन्ति, त् becoming voiced द् before भ्)

17. The sandhi अन्नात् + भवन्ति -> अन्नाद्भवन्ति changes त् to द् because:

- (A) the word is plural (B) the verb is past tense
(C) the following sound भ् is voiced (D) the noun is feminine

18. Recognising the sandhi lets you see that अन्नाद् is still the _____ case.

- (A) nominative (B) ablative ('from food')
(C) accusative (D) genitive

19. In classical Sanskrit, भूतानि means:

- (A) beings / living creatures (B) ghosts
(C) foods (D) sacrifices

20. The Hindi भूत often means 'ghost', but here भूतानि means:

- (A) ghosts (B) spirits of the dead only
(C) demons (D) beings / creatures (every living thing)

21. भूत and भूतानि come from the root:

- (A) ज्ञा ('to know') (B) पा ('to drink')
(C) नी ('to lead') (D) भू ('to be')

22. Whether भूत means 'being' or 'ghost' depends on:

- (A) the context (Vedanta/Gita vs folk-Hindi) (B) the speaker's age
(C) the time of day (D) the number of the noun

23. In the Gita context, अन्नाद् भवन्ति भूतानि is about:

- (A) ghosts arising from food (B) food arising from ghosts
(C) all living beings arising from food (D) beings destroying food

24. ब्रह्म in this chapter means:

- (A) a priest
(B) the all-pervading Cosmic Power (the impersonal Absolute)
(C) the creator-god (D) a fox

25. ब्रह्म is glossed as सर्वव्याप्तः परमेश्वरः, meaning:

- (A) the all-pervading Supreme (B) a local deity
(C) a human teacher (D) a herb

26. The ब्रह्म of this chapter is grammatically:

- (A) masculine (the creator-god) (B) masculine (a priest)
(C) feminine (D) neuter (the impersonal Absolute)

27. ब्रह्म (the Absolute) is distinct from ब्रह्मा, which means:

- (A) the impersonal Absolute (B) a priest
(C) a herb (D) the creator-god

28. ब्रह्म is also distinct from ब्रह्मन्, which means:

- | | |
|------------------|---------------------|
| (A) a priest | (B) the creator-god |
| (C) the Absolute | (D) a sacrifice |

29. The cycle of creation is presented as an expression of the omnipresent:

- | | |
|---------------------------|-------------|
| (A) ghost | (B) fox |
| (C) ब्रह्म (Cosmic Power) | (D) boaster |

30. रसायनशास्त्रम् means:

- | | |
|-------------------|---------------|
| (A) astronomy | (B) chemistry |
| (C) medicine only | (D) grammar |

31. शास्त्रम् in रसायनशास्त्रम् means:

- | | |
|------------------------|-----------------|
| (A) a herb | (B) a ghost |
| (C) science / treatise | (D) a sacrifice |

32. रसायन originally meant Ayurvedic tonics but is now reused for:

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|---------------|
| (A) the modern science of chemistry | (B) astronomy |
| (C) poetry | (D) cooking |

33. Using an old word (रसायन) for a modern subject (chemistry) shows that Sanskrit:

- | | |
|------------------------------------|---|
| (A) cannot describe modern science | (B) can adapt old vocabulary to new ideas |
| (C) has no scientific words | (D) is no longer used |

34. जानीयात् means:

- | | |
|-----------------------|-----------------------|
| (A) (one) knew | (B) (one) is known |
| (C) (one) should know | (D) know! (a command) |

35. The mood of जानीयात् is the:

- | | |
|------------------|------------------------------|
| (A) future tense | (B) optative (विधिलिङ्-लकार) |
| (C) past tense | (D) imperative |

36. The optative (विधिलिङ्) expresses:

- | | |
|-------------------------|---------------------------|
| (A) 'will' (future) | (B) 'did' (past) |
| (C) 'should / ought to' | (D) 'is' (a present fact) |

37. जानीयात् is the 3rd-singular optative of the root:

- | | |
|----------------------|---------------------|
| (A) भू ('to be') | (B) पा ('to drink') |
| (C) ज्ञा ('to know') | (D) गम् ('to go') |

38. जानीयात् is glossed as अवगच्छेत्, meaning:

- | | |
|--------------------|-------------------------------------|
| (A) did understand | (B) should understand / should know |
| (C) is understood | (D) understand! (a command) |

39. The optative is Sanskrit's gentle way of saying:

- (A) what definitely happened
(C) what one ought to do

- (B) what is happening right now
(D) what is forbidden

40. यज्ञ means:

- (A) image-based temple worship
(C) a ghost

- (B) a herb
(D) a Vedic fire-ritual (often with offerings)

41. पूजा differs from यज्ञ in that पूजा is:

- (A) a Vedic fire-ritual
(C) a chemistry term

- (B) devotional worship, often image-based
(D) a verb

42. In the Gita verse, यज्ञ is taken in the broader sense of:

- (A) only temple worship
(C) selfless action (including ritual)

- (B) only chemistry
(D) only food

43. The difference between यज्ञ and पूजा is mainly one of:

- (A) spelling only
(C) ritual tradition (fire-offering vs devotional worship)
(D) number

- (B) tense

44. ओषधीनाम् means:

- (A) of ghosts
(C) of chemistry

- (B) of sacrifices
(D) of herbs / plants

45. ओषधीनाम् is the _____ case of ओषधि.

- (A) ablative singular
(C) nominative singular

- (B) accusative plural
(D) genitive plural ('of herbs')

46. उत्पत्तिक्रमम् means:

- (A) the order of origin (how things arise)
(C) a chemistry experiment

- (B) the order of destruction
(D) a ghost story

47. The chapter's उत्पत्तिक्रमम् is best illustrated by:

- (A) the twelve names of the Sun
(B) the chain action -> yajna -> rain -> food -> beings
(C) the six faults
(D) the five va-qualities

48. ज्ञेयः is a gerundive, meaning:

- (A) 'known' (a past participle)
(C) 'knowledge'

- (B) 'one who knows'
(D) 'should be known / is to be known'

49. The gerundive ज्ञेयः differs from the past participle ज्ञात (=known) in that ज्ञेयः means:

- (A) 'already known'
(C) 'a knower'

- (B) 'to be known' (not yet, but ought to be)
(D) 'knowledge itself'

50. By analogy, just as कार्य = 'to be done' (from कृत 'done'), ज्ञेय = _____ (from ज्ञात 'known').

- (A) 'already known' (B) 'a doer'
(C) 'an action' (D) 'to be known'

51. जिज्ञासा, which returns in this chapter, means:

- (A) curiosity / the wish to know (B) a sacrifice
(C) a herb (D) a ghost

52. जिज्ञासा and जानीयात् both relate to the root ज्ञा, connecting:

- (A) eating and drinking (B) ritual and worship
(C) the wish to know and the duty to know (D) past and future

53. Which word-meaning pair is CORRECT?

- (A) भूतानि = beings (B) भूतानि = foods
(C) अन्नात् = to food (D) जानीयात् = (one) knew

54. Which grammar pair is CORRECT?

- (A) जानीयात् = optative ('should know'); अन्नात् = ablative ('from food')
(B) जानीयात् = past tense; अन्नात् = dative (C) जानीयात् = future; अन्नात् = nominative
(D) ज्ञेयः = a past participle

55. Which 'three Brahmas' pair is CORRECT?

- (A) ब्रह्म = a priest; ब्रह्मा = the Absolute (B) ब्रह्मन् = the creator-god
(C) ब्रह्म (neuter) = the Absolute; ब्रह्मा = the creator-god
(D) all three mean exactly the same

56. Which cycle-step pair is CORRECT?

- (A) food comes from rain; rain comes from yajna
(B) food comes from yajna; rain from action
(C) beings come from rain; food from beings (D) yajna comes from food

57. The central theme of this chapter is:

- (A) a fox and grapes (B) banking and finance
(C) the interdependent cycle of creation, rooted in the all-pervading ब्रह्म
(D) types of government

58. The chapter links the Gita verse to रसायनशास्त्रम् to show that:

- (A) chemistry is useless (B) the Gita is about chemistry alone
(C) science contradicts the verse
(D) ancient insight and modern science can speak about the same world

59. Putting it together, अन्नाद् भवन्ति भूतानि teaches that:

- (A) beings create their own food
(B) all beings depend on food, which depends on rain, yajna and action in one cycle
(C) food is unnecessary for life (D) ghosts arise from rain

60. A student claims: 'भूतानि means ghosts, and जानीयात् is past tense.' The best correction is:

- (A) भूतानि means beings/creatures, and जानीयात् is the optative ('one should know')
(B) the student is fully correct (C) भूतानि means beings, but जानीयात् is past
(D) भूतानि means ghosts, and जानीयात् is optative

Solutions — Sanskrit (Class 7), Chapter 9: अन्नाद् भवन्ति भूतानि (Annad Bhavanti Bhutani)

Worked Solutions

1. (B) It means 'from food, beings come to be'. It does not say beings create food, food destroys beings, or beings eat ghosts.

2. (A) The verse is from the Bhagavad Gita (3.14). It is not the Ramayana, the Arthashastra, or the Isha Upanishad.

3. (C) भूतानि means 'beings / living creatures'. It does not mean ghosts, foods, or rains.

4. (A) भवन्ति means 'they come to be / arise' (from भू). It does not mean destroy, eat, or 'should know'.

5. (D) अन्नात् is ablative, 'from food'. 'To food' is dative, 'of food' genitive, and 'without food' would need a different construction.

6. (D) Food comes from rain, rain from yajna, and yajna from action (karma). The other orderings scramble the chain.

7. (B) Food comes from rain (पर्जन्य). Rain comes from yajna, yajna from action, and beings from food.
8. (D) Rain comes from yajna (sacrifice). Food comes from rain, not the reverse; beings and herbs are elsewhere in the cycle.
9. (C) Yajna comes from action (कर्म). Chemistry, beings and food are not its source in the verse.
10. (A) The chain ends in beings (भूतानि). Not ghosts, herbs, or chemistry.
11. (A) The cycle teaches interdependence - everything depends on the rest. Not independence, chaos, or destruction.
12. (D) Human action ultimately supports the food and life of all beings. Not nothing, only the rich, or ghosts.
13. (B) अन्नात् is the ablative of अन्न ('from food'). It is not nominative, accusative, or dative.
14. (B) The ablative marks food as the source from which beings arise - dependence, not a maker, enemy, or ruler.
15. (B) Ablatives express 'arise from', so the chain shows dependence, not manufacture, destruction, or chance.
16. (D) The -द् results from sandhi: अन्नात् + भवन्ति, where त् becomes voiced द् before the voiced भ्. It is not a plural ending, a root, or a tense.
17. (C) त् becomes the voiced द् because the following भ् is voiced. Plurality, tense and gender are irrelevant here.
18. (B) Despite the sandhi, अन्नाद् is still the ablative ('from food'). It is not nominative, accusative, or genitive.
19. (A) Classical Sanskrit भूतानि means beings / creatures. Not ghosts, foods, or sacrifices.
20. (D) Here भूतानि means beings / creatures, not the folk-Hindi 'ghost', 'spirits of the dead', or 'demons'.
21. (D) भूत and भूतानि come from भू ('to be'). ज्ञा is 'to know', पा 'to drink', and नी 'to lead'.
22. (A) Context decides: Vedanta/Gita gives 'being', folk-Hindi 'ghost'. Not the speaker's age, time, or number.
23. (C) In the Gita context it is about all living beings arising from food. Not ghosts, nor food from ghosts, nor destruction.

- 24. (B) ब्रह्म here is the all-pervading Cosmic Power (the impersonal Absolute). A priest is ब्रह्मन्, the creator-god ब्रह्मा, and a fox शृगालः.
- 25. (A) ब्रह्म = सर्वव्याप्तः परमेश्वरः = 'the all-pervading Supreme'. Not a local deity, a human teacher, or a herb.
- 26. (D) This ब्रह्म is neuter (the impersonal Absolute). Masculine ब्रह्मा is the creator-god and ब्रह्मन् a priest; it is not feminine.
- 27. (D) ब्रह्मा is the creator-god, distinct from the neuter Absolute ब्रह्म. A priest is ब्रह्मन्; a herb is ओषधि.
- 28. (A) ब्रह्मन् means a priest. The creator-god is ब्रह्मा, the Absolute neuter ब्रह्म, and a sacrifice यज्ञ.
- 29. (C) The cycle expresses the omnipresent ब्रह्म (Cosmic Power). Not a ghost, fox, or boaster.
- 30. (B) रसायनशास्त्रम् means 'chemistry'. Astronomy is खगोलशास्त्रम्, and grammar व्याकरणम्.
- 31. (C) शास्त्रम् means 'science / treatise'. A herb is ओषधि, a ghost भूत (in folk use), and a sacrifice यज्ञ.
- 32. (A) रसायन, once Ayurvedic tonics, is now reused for chemistry. Not astronomy, poetry, or cooking.
- 33. (B) It shows Sanskrit can adapt old vocabulary to new ideas. It is not unable to describe science, word-less, or unused.
- 34. (C) जानीयात् means '(one) should know' (optative). It is not past 'knew', passive 'is known', or the command 'know!'.
- 35. (B) जानीयात् is in the optative (विधिलिङ्). It is not future, past, or imperative.
- 36. (C) The optative expresses 'should / ought to'. It is not 'will', 'did', or a plain present fact.
- 37. (C) जानीयात् is the optative of ज्ञा ('to know'). भू is 'to be', पा 'to drink', and गम् 'to go'.
- 38. (B) जानीयात् = अवगच्छेत् = 'should understand / should know'. Not 'did understand', 'is understood', or a command.
- 39. (C) The optative gently states what one ought to do. Not what definitely happened, is happening now, or is forbidden.
- 40. (D) यज्ञ is a Vedic fire-ritual. Image-based worship is पूजा; a herb is ओषधि; a ghost is folk भूत.

- 41. (B) पूजा is devotional, often image-based worship; यज्ञ is the Vedic fire-ritual. पूजा is not a chemistry term or a verb.
- 42. (C) In the Gita, यज्ञ broadly means selfless action including ritual. Not only temple worship, chemistry, or food.
- 43. (C) They differ in ritual tradition - fire-offering (यज्ञ) vs devotional worship (पूजा). Not just spelling, tense, or number.
- 44. (D) ओषधीनाम् means 'of herbs / plants'. Not of ghosts, sacrifices, or chemistry.
- 45. (D) ओषधीनाम् is the genitive plural ('of herbs'). It is not ablative singular, accusative plural, or nominative singular.
- 46. (A) उत्पत्तिक्रमम् is 'the order of origin'. Not destruction, an experiment, or a ghost story.
- 47. (B) The order of origin is the chain action -> yajna -> rain -> food -> beings. Not the Sun-names, six faults, or va-qualities.
- 48. (D) ज्ञेयः is a gerundive, 'should be known / is to be known'. Not 'known' (ज्ञात), a knower, or knowledge.
- 49. (B) ज्ञेयः means 'to be known', while ज्ञात means 'already known'. It is not a knower or knowledge itself.
- 50. (D) Just as कार्य = 'to be done', ज्ञेय = 'to be known'. Not 'already known', 'a doer', or 'an action'.
- 51. (A) जिज्ञासा means 'curiosity / the wish to know'. Not a sacrifice, herb, or ghost.
- 52. (C) Both come from ज्ञा, connecting the wish to know (जिज्ञासा) and the duty to know (जानीयात्). Not eating/drinking, ritual, or tense.
- 53. (A) भूतानि = beings. भूतानि are not foods, अन्नात् is 'from food' (not 'to food'), and जानीयात् is 'should know' (not 'knew').
- 54. (A) जानीयात् is the optative and अन्नात् the ablative. The other pairings misname the mood, case, or ज्ञेयः.
- 55. (C) ब्रह्म (neuter) is the Absolute and ब्रह्मा the creator-god. ब्रह्मन् is a priest; they do not all mean the same.
- 56. (A) Food comes from rain and rain from yajna. The other pairings scramble the cycle.
- 57. (C) The theme is the interdependent cycle of creation, rooted in the all-pervading ब्रह्म. Not the fox fable, banking, or government.

58. (D) It shows ancient insight and modern science can describe the same world. Chemistry is not useless, the Gita is not only chemistry, and science need not contradict the verse.

59. (B) It teaches that all beings depend on food, which depends on rain, yajna and action in one cycle. The other readings are wrong.

60. (A) भूतानि means beings/creatures, and जानीयात् is the optative ('one should know'). The other options keep one or both errors.
