Chapter 10: The Constitution of India — An Introduction

Subject	Social Science (NCERT Class 7)
Chapter	10 — The Constitution of India — An Introduction
Total Questions	60 (Multiple Choice, single correct)
Maximum Marks	240
Suggested Time	90 minutes

Marking scheme: +4 for each correct answer · -1 for each wrong answer · 0 if unattempted.

Instructions: Each question has four options (A), (B), (C), (D); exactly one is correct. Watch the classic traps: 'secular' means equal respect for ALL faiths and freedom of religion, NOT being against religion; the Constitution is a LIVING document that can be amended, not fixed forever; Republic Day (26 Jan 1950) marks the Constitution coming into effect, while Independence was 15 Aug 1947; India studied MANY constitutions and chose what suited it, rather than copying one country; and 'We, the People' means the people gave the Constitution to themselves. Keep the dates and the Fundamental Rights / Duties / Directive Principles distinct. Do not write on this paper — mark answers on your answer sheet.

1. A 'constitution' is best described as:

- (A) a yearly budget of government spending
- (B) the supreme document spelling out a nation's basic principles, laws, government, and citizens' rights and duties
- (C) a collection of a country's folk songs
- (D) a treaty signed with a foreign country

2. The chapter calls the Constitution the nation's:

- (A) oldest storybook
- (B) daily newspaper
- (C) supreme 'rulebook'
- (D) royal family tree

3. Which of these does a constitution do?

- (A) decide the result of every cricket match
- (B) choose each citizen's job
- (C) write the lyrics of the national songs
- (D) set up the three organs of government and arrange checks and balances among them

4. A constitution also states a country's:

- (A) weather forecast for the year
- (B) list of tourist hotels
- (C) long-term goals and values
- (D) record of cricket scores

5. Why does a country need a constitution?

- (A) to lay down agreed basic rules so government and citizens know their powers, rights and limits
- (B) so that no laws ever have to be made again
- (C) to make the country the largest in the world
- (D) to remove the need for any government

6. Officials such as judges and ministers take a pledge to:

- (A) uphold the Constitution
- (B) obey a foreign ruler
- (C) serve only their own family
- (D) ignore the courts

7. That even top officials must pledge to uphold the Constitution shows that:

- (A) officials are free to ignore it whenever they wish
- (B) only ordinary citizens must follow it
- (C) the Constitution applies only on Republic Day
- (D) the Constitution stands above every individual, including the most powerful

8. India's Constitution was written by the:

- (A) British Parliament
- (B) United Nations
- (C) Supreme Court of India
- (D) Constituent Assembly

9. The Constituent Assembly was formed in:

- (A) 1947
- (B) 1946
- (C) 1950
- (D) 1976

10. After Partition, the Constituent Assembly's membership changed from 389 to about:

- (A) 100 members
- (B) 545 members
- (C) 15 members
- (D) 299 members

11. The Constituent Assembly included how many women members?

- (A) 15
- (B) none at all
- (C) 150
- (D) 299

12. The Constituent Assembly was chaired by:

- (A) Dr. B.R. Ambedkar
- (B) Mahatma Gandhi
- (C) Jawaharlal Nehru
- (D) Dr. Rajendra Prasad

13. The Drafting Committee that prepared the text was headed by:

- (A) Dr. Rajendra Prasad
- (B) Dr. B.R. Ambedkar
- (C) Sardar Patel
- (D) Dr. S. Radhakrishnan

14. The difference between Dr. Rajendra Prasad's and Dr. Ambedkar's roles was that:

- (A) Prasad chaired the whole Assembly while Ambedkar headed the committee that drafted the text
- (B) both headed the Drafting Committee together
- (C) Ambedkar chaired the Assembly and Prasad drafted the text
- (D) neither had any role in the Constitution

15. India's Constitution was adopted on:

- (A) 15 August 1947
- (B) 26 January 1950
- (C) 26 November 1946
- (D) 26 November 1949

16. The Constitution came into effect on:

- (A) 26 November 1949
- (B) 15 August 1947
- (C) 26 January 1950
- (D) 1 January 1950

17. Republic Day, 26 January, marks the day:

- (A) the Constitution came into effect, making India a republic
- (B) India became independent from Britain
- (C) the Constituent Assembly was formed
- (D) the Fundamental Duties were added

18. The claim 'Republic Day is when India became independent' is wrong because:

- (A) India is not independent at all
- (B) independence was on 15 August 1947, while 26 January 1950 marks the Constitution coming into effect
- (C) Republic Day and Independence Day are the same date
- (D) India became independent in 1950

19. Which sequence is in correct order (earliest first)?

- (A) Independence (1947), Assembly formed (1946), effect (1950), adopted (1949)
- (B) Constitution adopted (1949), Independence (1947), Assembly formed (1946), effect (1950)
- (C) Assembly formed (1946), Independence (1947), Constitution adopted (1949), comes into effect (1950)
- (D) comes into effect (1950), adopted (1949), Independence (1947), Assembly formed (1946)

20. The three great influences on India's Constitution were the freedom struggle, India's civilisational heritage, and:

- (A) the rules of a single foreign king
- (B) useful learnings from other countries' constitutions
- (C) the wishes of the British Parliament alone
- (D) a vote of the United Nations

21. The freedom movement shaped the Constitution by:

- (A) copying Britain's monarchy exactly
- (B) rejecting all Indian traditions
- (C) banning all elections

(D) bringing in the values and goals India had fought for, such as liberty and equality

22. The claim 'India simply copied its Constitution from one other country' is wrong because the Assembly:

- (A) invented every idea from scratch with no outside study
- (B) studied many sources and chose what suited India, weaving them with its own values
- (C) copied only the British monarchy
- (D) refused to look at any other country

23. India borrowed the idea of a parliamentary system mainly from:

- (A) Britain
- (B) Ireland
- (C) the USA
- (D) ancient Rome

24. The idea of Fundamental Rights and judicial review was influenced by the:

- (A) Britain
- (B) Ireland
- (C) France
- (D) USA

25. The Directive Principles of State Policy were inspired partly by:

- (A) Britain
- (B) the USA
- (C) Ireland
- (D) Japan

26. The Constitution sets up which three organs of government?

- (A) legislature, executive and judiciary
- (B) army, navy and air force
- (C) president, king and pope
- (D) centre, state and village only

27. 'Checks and balances' arranged by the Constitution mean that the three organs:

- (A) can limit one another so no single organ becomes too powerful
- (B) are all merged into one body
- (C) never affect one another at all
- (D) are each abolished in turn

28. Why does the Constitution keep the three organs separate yet able to check each other?

- (A) to make the government slower for its own sake
- (B) to prevent any one organ from misusing power and to protect citizens
- (C) to give the judiciary control over elections
- (D) to remove the need for any laws

29. 'Fundamental Rights' are:

- (A) goals the government should aim for but cannot be enforced in court
- (B) duties that every citizen must perform
- (C) powers belonging only to ministers
- (D) basic rights guaranteed to citizens that can be enforced through the courts

30. A key feature of Fundamental Rights is that a citizen can:

- (A) never have them questioned by anyone
- (B) go to court if these rights are violated
- (C) only enjoy them on Republic Day
- (D) trade them away for money

- 31. Which is an example of a Fundamental Right being enforced?
- (A) a citizen plants trees to protect the environment
 - (B) the government builds new roads
 - (C) Parliament debates a new tax
 - (D) a citizen asks a court to protect a right the government has violated
- 32. Fundamental Rights differ from Directive Principles mainly because Fundamental Rights:
- (A) are only goals, while Directive Principles are enforceable
 - (B) apply only to ministers
 - (C) were added only in 1976
 - (D) can be enforced in court, while Directive Principles cannot
- 33. 'Fundamental Duties' are:
- (A) rights that can be enforced in court
 - (B) powers reserved for the President
 - (C) responsibilities of citizens, such as respecting the National Flag and protecting the environment
 - (D) goals only the government must meet
- 34. Protecting the environment, as listed in the Constitution, is an example of a:
- (A) Fundamental Duty of citizens
 - (B) Fundamental Right enforceable in court
 - (C) Directive Principle binding only on the courts
 - (D) power of the army
- 35. Fundamental Duties were added to the Constitution in:
- (A) 1950
 - (B) 1947
 - (C) 1976
 - (D) 1992
- 36. 'Directive Principles of State Policy' are:
- (A) goals and guidelines for the government that cannot be enforced in court
 - (B) rights that citizens can enforce in court
 - (C) duties every citizen must perform
 - (D) the powers of the police
- 37. Although Directive Principles cannot be enforced in court, they:
- (A) guide the government in making its policies and laws
 - (B) have no purpose at all
 - (C) can be ignored completely by everyone
 - (D) override the Fundamental Rights
- 38. The main contrast between Fundamental Rights and Directive Principles is that:
- (A) both are equally enforceable in court
 - (B) both are merely optional suggestions
 - (C) Rights are enforceable in court while Principles are guiding goals that are not
 - (D) Principles are enforceable but Rights are not
- 39. The Constitution is called a 'living document' because it:
- (A) can never be changed once written
 - (B) was written by living people
 - (C) can be changed through amendments as the country's needs evolve

(D) is read aloud every single day

40. An 'amendment' to the Constitution is:

- (A) a change to it, rigorously debated in Parliament before being accepted
- (B) a yearly election of the President
- (C) a treaty with a foreign country
- (D) a court verdict in a single case

41. The claim 'the Constitution can never be changed once it was written' is wrong because:

- (A) the Constitution has been completely rewritten every year
- (B) only a king may change it
- (C) it has never been changed at all
- (D) it is a living document amended over time, as with Fundamental Duties (1976) and Panchayati Raj (1992)

42. That amendments are 'rigorously debated in Parliament' before acceptance shows that change to the Constitution is:

- (A) forbidden entirely
- (B) done secretly by one person
- (C) possible, but deliberately not easy or careless
- (D) automatic every year

43. Adding Panchayati Raj in 1992 is an example of how the Constitution:

- (A) cannot respond to change at all
- (B) was copied from another country in 1992
- (C) adapts to new needs through amendment
- (D) was abolished and rewritten

44. The 'Preamble' of the Constitution is:

- (A) the final chapter listing punishments
- (B) the opening statement summing up its core values and the kind of nation India is
- (C) a list of all the country's laws
- (D) a map of India's states

45. The Preamble begins with the words:

- (A) 'By Order of the King'
- (B) 'In the Name of the Empire'
- (C) 'For the Government Alone'
- (D) 'We, the People of India'

46. The phrase 'We, the People' is important because it declares that:

- (A) a king handed the Constitution down to the people
- (B) a foreign ruler wrote it for India
- (C) only the government holds power
- (D) the Constitution's authority comes from the people of India, who gave it to themselves

47. Because the Constitution opens with 'We, the People', India's supreme rulebook is best seen as:

- (A) a gift from the British monarch
- (B) a document the people of India gave to themselves
- (C) an order from the United Nations
- (D) a decree of the Supreme Court

48. 'Sovereign', in the Preamble, means India:

- (A) has the supreme right to decide its own internal and external matters, free from outside control
- (B) must take orders from a foreign power
- (C) has no government of its own
- (D) is ruled by the United Nations

49. 'Secular', in the Preamble, means that India:

- (A) is against all religion
- (B) has banned every religion
- (C) gives citizens freedom to follow any religion, has no official state religion, and respects all faiths equally
- (D) has one official state religion

50. The belief that 'secular means India is against religion' is wrong because secular actually means:

- (A) the state promotes atheism
- (B) only one religion is allowed
- (C) religion is illegal
- (D) equal respect for all faiths and freedom to follow any religion

51. 'Democratic', in the Preamble, means India is:

- (A) ruled by a hereditary king
- (B) ruled by religious leaders
- (C) governed by the people, who choose their rulers through free and fair elections
- (D) ruled by a small wealthy group

52. 'Republic', in the Preamble, means India's head of state is:

- (A) an elected person, not a hereditary king or queen
- (B) a hereditary monarch
- (C) a religious leader
- (D) a foreign governor

53. 'Socialist', in the Preamble, expresses the aim of:

- (A) making one family the richest in the land
- (B) reducing inequality so wealth and opportunity are shared more fairly
- (C) abolishing the government
- (D) banning all trade

54. 'Justice' in the Preamble means:

- (A) punishment for everyone
- (B) fair treatment for all - social, economic and political
- (C) freedom only for the rich
- (D) the rule of the strongest

55. 'Liberty' in the Preamble is the freedom of every citizen to:

- (A) ignore every law of the land
- (B) think, speak, believe and worship as they choose
- (C) take others' property freely
- (D) rule the country alone

56. 'Equality' in the Preamble means:

- (A) equal status and equal opportunity for all, with no discrimination
- (B) everyone must earn exactly the same wage forever
- (C) only equal voting and nothing else (D) equality only for the wealthy

57. 'Fraternity' in the Preamble means a spirit of:

- (A) rivalry between regions (B) loyalty only to one's own family
- (C) brotherhood and unity among all citizens, respecting one another's dignity
- (D) obedience to a foreign power

58. Which statement correctly groups the Preamble's key words by type?

- (A) all nine words describe only the head of state
- (B) Sovereign, Socialist, Secular, Democratic and Republic describe the STATE; Justice, Liberty, Equality and Fraternity describe its GOALS for citizens
- (C) the nine words are the names of the three organs
- (D) the nine words list India's neighbouring countries

59. Taken together, the Preamble's key words show that the Constitution aims to make India:

- (A) a kingdom ruled by one family
- (B) a self-governing nation of free, equal citizens living in unity and justice
- (C) a state with one official religion (D) a country controlled from abroad

60. A student says, 'Our Constitution is fixed forever and was handed to us by a foreign power.' The best correction is:

- (A) it truly cannot be changed and came from abroad
- (B) it changes daily and was written by a king
- (C) it is a living document that can be amended, and it was given by the people of India to themselves
- (D) it has no values or goals at all

Worked Solutions

- (B) A constitution is the supreme rulebook setting up government, listing rights and duties, and stating a country's goals. It is not a budget, a songbook, or a foreign treaty.
- (C) The Constitution is the supreme 'rulebook' of the nation. It is not a storybook, newspaper, or family tree.
- (D) A constitution establishes the three organs and their checks and balances (plus rights, duties and goals). It does not decide sports, jobs, or song lyrics.
- (C) A constitution sets out the nation's long-term goals and values. Weather, hotels and scores are unrelated.
- (A) A constitution provides agreed basic rules defining powers, rights and limits for government and citizens. It does not end lawmaking, enlarge territory, or abolish government.
- (A) Officials pledge to uphold the Constitution, showing it is the supreme authority. They do not pledge to a foreign ruler, their family, or to ignore courts.

- 7. (D) The pledge shows the Constitution is supreme over everyone, even the powerful. It is not ignorable, citizens-only, or limited to one day.
- 8. (D) The Constituent Assembly, formed in 1946, wrote India's Constitution. It was not written by the British Parliament, the UN, or the Supreme Court.
- 9. (B) The Constituent Assembly was formed in 1946. 1947 is independence, 1950 is when the Constitution took effect, and 1976 is when Fundamental Duties were added.
- 10. (D) Membership fell from 389 to about 299 after Partition. 15 was the number of women members, not the total; 100 and 545 are unrelated.
- 11. (A) The Assembly included 15 women. It was not all-male; 299 was the post-Partition total and 150 is invented.
- 12. (D) Dr. Rajendra Prasad chaired the Constituent Assembly. Dr. Ambedkar headed the Drafting Committee; Gandhi and Nehru held other roles.
- 13. (B) Dr. B.R. Ambedkar headed the Drafting Committee. Dr. Rajendra Prasad chaired the Assembly itself; the others held different roles.
- 14. (A) Prasad chaired the Constituent Assembly; Ambedkar headed the Drafting Committee that wrote the text. The other options swap or deny their roles.
- 15. (D) The Constitution was adopted on 26 November 1949. 15 August 1947 is independence, 26 January 1950 is when it came into effect, and 1946 is when the Assembly formed.
- 16. (C) It came into effect on 26 January 1950, now Republic Day. The 1949 date is adoption, 1947 is independence, and 1 January is unrelated.
- 17. (A) Republic Day marks the Constitution taking effect in 1950. Independence was 15 August 1947, the Assembly formed in 1946, and Duties were added in 1976.
- 18. (B) Independence Day is 15 August 1947; Republic Day (26 January 1950) marks the Constitution's coming into force. They are different dates, and independence was 1947, not 1950.
- 19. (C) The order is 1946 (Assembly), 1947 (Independence), 1949 (adopted), 1950 (effect). The other options scramble these dates.
- 20. (B) The three influences were the freedom movement, India's heritage, and learnings from other countries. It was not one king's rules, the British Parliament alone, or a UN vote.

21. (D) The freedom struggle infused the Constitution with hard-won values such as liberty and equality. It did not copy the monarchy, reject Indian traditions, or ban elections.

22. (B) The Assembly studied many constitutions and selected what fit India, blending them with the freedom movement's values and India's heritage. It neither copied one country, invented everything alone, nor refused outside ideas.

23. (A) The parliamentary system was drawn from Britain. Directive Principles came from Ireland and the Fundamental Rights / judicial review idea from the USA.

24. (D) Fundamental Rights and judicial review drew on the US example. Britain influenced the parliamentary system and Ireland the Directive Principles.

25. (C) The Directive Principles were inspired partly by Ireland. Britain shaped the parliamentary system and the USA the Fundamental Rights idea.

26. (A) The three organs are the legislature, executive and judiciary. The armed forces, those leaders, and tiers of government are not the three organs.

27. (A) Checks and balances let each organ limit the others, preventing any from dominating. They are not merged, isolated, or abolished.

28. (B) Separation with checks guards against the misuse of power and protects citizens. It is not slowness for its own sake, judicial control of elections, or removing laws.

29. (D) Fundamental Rights are court-enforceable basic rights of citizens. Non-enforceable goals are Directive Principles, citizen responsibilities are Fundamental Duties, and they are not ministers' powers.

30. (B) Fundamental Rights are enforceable - a citizen can approach the courts if they are violated. They are not beyond all process, day-limited, or tradeable.

31. (D) Enforcing a Fundamental Right means using the courts when a right is violated. Planting trees is a duty; road-building and tax debates are ordinary government work.

32. (D) Fundamental Rights are court-enforceable; Directive Principles are non-enforceable guidelines. The other options reverse this or confuse them with the Duties added in 1976.

33. (C) Fundamental Duties are citizens' responsibilities, like respecting the flag and protecting the environment. They are not enforceable rights, presidential powers, or government-only goals.

34. (A) Protecting the environment is a Fundamental Duty. It is not a court-enforceable right, a court-binding principle, or an army power.

- 35. (C) Fundamental Duties were added by amendment in 1976. 1950 is when the Constitution took effect, 1947 is independence, and 1992 brought Panchayati Raj.
- 36. (A) Directive Principles are non-enforceable goals guiding government policy. Enforceable rights are Fundamental Rights, citizen responsibilities are Duties, and they are not police powers.
- 37. (A) Directive Principles steer the government's policymaking even though courts cannot enforce them. They are not purposeless, ignorable, or superior to Fundamental Rights.
- 38. (C) Fundamental Rights can be enforced in court; Directive Principles are guiding goals that cannot. The other options confuse or reverse this.
- 39. (C) A 'living document' can be amended as needs change. It is not unchangeable, named for its authors, or a daily reading.
- 40. (A) An amendment is a change to the Constitution, carefully debated in Parliament. It is not an election, a treaty, or a court verdict.
- 41. (D) The Constitution is amendable, with changes like Fundamental Duties (1976) and Panchayati Raj (1992). It is not rewritten yearly, king-changed, or never changed.
- 42. (C) Rigorous debate means the Constitution can change but only carefully, not easily or carelessly. It is neither forbidden, secret one-person work, nor automatic.
- 43. (C) The 1992 Panchayati Raj amendment shows the Constitution adapting to new needs. It is not unresponsive, foreign-copied, or rewritten.
- 44. (B) The Preamble is the opening statement of guiding values. It is not a final chapter, a full law-list, or a map.
- 45. (D) The Preamble opens with 'We, the People of India'. The other phrases would imply a king, empire or government as the source, which the Preamble rejects.
- 46. (D) 'We, the People' shows the Constitution's authority flows from the people themselves, not a king or foreign ruler.
- 47. (B) Opening with 'We, the People' marks the Constitution as self-given by India's people, not a British gift, a UN order, or a court decree.
- 48. (A) Sovereign means India decides its own affairs with no external power dictating to it. It is not foreign-controlled, government-less, or UN-ruled.
- 49. (C) Secular means freedom of religion, no state religion, and equal respect for all faiths. It is not anti-religion, religion-banning, or single-religion.

50. (D) Secular means equal respect for all religions and freedom to practise any, not state atheism, a single allowed religion, or illegality.

51. (C) Democratic means the people govern through free and fair elections. King-rule, religious rule and wealthy-few rule are other forms.

52. (A) Republic means the head of state is elected, not a hereditary monarch. Religious or foreign heads describe other systems.

53. (B) Socialist (from Latin socius, 'companion') aims to reduce inequality and share wealth and opportunity fairly. It is not about enriching one family, abolishing government, or banning trade.

54. (B) Justice means fair treatment - social, economic and political - so no one is wronged. It is not blanket punishment, rich-only freedom, or might-makes-right.

55. (B) Liberty (Latin liber, 'free') is the freedom to think, speak, believe and worship. It is not lawlessness, theft, or sole rule.

56. (A) Equality means equal status and opportunity with no discrimination. It is broader than identical wages or voting alone, and certainly not wealth-limited.

57. (C) Fraternity (Latin frater, 'brother') is brotherhood and unity, with respect for each person's dignity. It is not rivalry, family-only loyalty, or foreign obedience.

58. (B) The first five words describe the kind of state India is, and the last four name the goals it secures for citizens. They are not about one person, the three organs, or neighbours.

59. (B) The key words together envision a sovereign, democratic republic of free and equal citizens in unity and justice. They reject monarchy, a state religion, and foreign control.

60. (C) The Constitution is a living, amendable document authored by 'We, the People of India', not fixed forever or foreign-given. The other options are wrong on both counts.
